

The right services for your child

Child Development Service

There is a wide range of community, public and private services that support children and families. Deciding which services are right for your child and family can be hard.

This flyer explains some of these services.

If your child has been referred to the Child Development Service (CDS), we can help you decide whether our service or another service would best meet your child's and family's needs. For more information, visit Child Development Service at health.wa.gov.au/CACH or phone 1300 551 827.

Child health and parenting services

Child Health Nurses provide a range of free services to help families raise happy, healthy children. You can contact your local Child Health Centre to ask about your child's health and development, and for help with common childhood concerns such as:

- behaviour
- mealtimes
- nutrition
- parent-child relationships
- play
- sleep
- toileting.

The nurse may talk with you about other services in the community or online information that you might find helpful. For more information, visit healthywa.wa.gov.au/childhealth.

If your child is older, you can talk to your child's teacher to find out about school health services. You might like to ask about making an appointment with a School Health Nurse.

Other government-funded services

Some children aged 0 to 6 years are eligible to receive free Early Childhood Early Intervention services through the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS).

For more information, visit ndis.gov.au/families-carers.

Child and Adolescent Health Service – Mental Health service offers support, advice and treatment to children up to 17 years old and their families, who are having problems with their relationships and/or how they think, feel and behave.

For more information visit healthywa.wa.gov.au/camhs

Medical services

If you think your child is unwell, or you are worried about a medical condition or injury, please talk to your child's doctor. CDS does not provide urgent or general medical services.

Private developmental services

Some families choose to pay for private developmental therapy services instead of, or sometimes as well as, CDS.

It may be helpful to ask some of these questions to help decide which private clinician might be best for your child and family:

- What are your qualifications? What is your area of specialty?
- What age group do you usually see?
- Where will the service be provided (home, school or clinic)?
- What services are offered? Are the services for groups or individuals?
- Will I receive a written report?
- What will the appointment cost? Do you bulk bill?
- Are you registered with Medicare and/or my private health insurer to provide rebates? Can you tell you how much the rebate is?

Talk with your doctor to find out if your child can receive a Medicare rebate for private developmental services. For more information, visit Medicare.gov.au or phone 132 011.

Where to find private services

You can search for private services on the websites listed below. These websites only include services that the CDS also provides. This list does not include all professionals who work with children and families.

Audiology	■ Audiology Australia
Occupational Therapy	■ Developmental Occupational Therapy WA ■ Occupational Therapy Australia ■ WA Occupational Therapy Association
Physiotherapy	■ Australian Physiotherapy Association
Psychology	■ Australian Clinical Psychology Association ■ Australian Psychological Society
Speech Pathology	■ Speech Pathology Australia
Paediatrics	You need a doctor's referral to see a private Paediatrician.

This document can be made available in alternative formats on request for a person with a disability.

This publication is provided for general education and information purposes.

Contact a qualified healthcare professional for any medical advice needed.

© State of Western Australia, Child and Adolescent Health Service – Community Health

September 2018 CAH-001053